Character/Personality

I am a hard-working, honest, and reliable person with many strong values, including my Christian beliefs. I enjoy learning new things regarding the topics that interest me, including gaining new skills as is evident by my initially self-taught coding skills. I am a naturally driven and tenacious person, so when it comes to problem solving, I will definitely be a great asset to any business or organization that affords me the opportunity to bring something to their table. I always try my best to get along with others, and I enjoy helping my colleagues where I can.
